

June 24, 2015

TO MEMBERS OF CONGRESS:

We are writing to urge your support for the Trade Preferences Extension Act of 2015 included in H.R. 1295, which renews the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) program and extends the African Growth and Opportunity Act (AGOA) and special trade preferences for Haiti. Together, these three programs form the bedrock of U.S. trade policy toward developing countries.

GSP expired nearly two years ago, on July 31, 2013. Since then, American companies have paid about $2 million a day – nearly $1.3 billion total – in higher taxes while awaiting congressional reauthorization of the GSP program. The mounting costs and uncertainty associated with congressional delay in renewing GSP have had a chilling effect on American businesses and workers. Many U.S. companies have been forced to lay off workers, cut wages and benefits, delay new hires, or cancel job-creating investments as a direct result of GSP expiration. H.R. 1295 renews and updates GSP through December 31, 2017, and refunds tariffs paid to date on eligible imports. It would have an immediate positive impact on U.S. jobs and competitiveness.

AGOA expires in less than four months. While products entering the United States from AGOA beneficiary countries continue to receive duty-free benefits, orders being placed now will arrive well after those benefits are set to expire. The time for a seamless AGOA renewal is long past, and as the deadline approaches more and more companies are canceling or delaying orders. H.R. 1295 extends AGOA through September 30, 2025, providing the certainty necessary for long-term investments in Africa. Every day brings AGOA expiration closer, and the GSP example demonstrates how strong the disincentive is to place orders under any program with a looming expiration.

Finally, H.R. 1295 extends special trade preferences for Haiti, the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere, through September 30, 2025. Enacting a long-term renewal now ensures that Haiti, like African countries under AGOA, does not lose crucial trade and investment opportunities because of the threat of a pending expiration.

These programs each enjoy broad bipartisan support. In recent weeks, previous versions of the Trade Preferences Extension Act of 2015 have overwhelmingly passed both the House (397-32) and Senate (97-1). We urge you to support passage of the Trade Preferences Extension Act of 2015 as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
